In 600-800 words, write an introductory strategy guide for new and inexperienced backgammon players.

Your strategy guide should include an explanation of a few general strategy guidelines players could use, along with a few more detailed analyses of specific board positions or situations that might arise in a game. Your analysis should include the techniques of probability discussed in class and in the readings, with the emphasis being to introduce new players to thinking about backgammon using a probabilistic approach. Write for someone who hasn’t read the texts we’ve read, but try to say something new rather than reproducing exactly the same advice and examples. Your strategy guide will be judged on clarity of explanation, depth and complexity of strategic ideas, and originality.

Submit a copy of your strategy guide on WISE on or before Thursday October 15.
