Text:
Microeconomics, 5th Edition, by Robert S. Pindyck and David L. Rubinfeld

Course Format:
This class meets for an hour at a time, three times a week. These meetings largely consist of lectures and problem solving periods. Class attendance and participation is highly encouraged. In previous classes, I have noticed a strong correlation between class participation and grades earned. You will be able to get much more out of each class period if you do the assigned reading before class.

Students With Disabilities: If you have a disability and need assistance, please notify me and make an appointment with the Disability Services. Special accommodations become effective when Disability Services, myself, and the student complete all necessary paperwork and may not be used to alter a grade (score) on previous work. To learn more about this you can see the following web site.

http://www.willamette.edu/dept/disability/policies.htm

Topics:
Principles of Microeconomics
Individual to Market Demand
Production Costs
Perfect Competition
Oligopoly and Strategic Behavior
General Equilibrium

Utility and Choice
Elasticity of Demand
Profit Maximization
Monopoly
Factor Inputs
More Topics, Depends on Time
Exams, Homework, and Grading Policy:
The course grade consists of ten homework assignments and three exams. The due dates for the assignments and test dates are listed below. If you are taking this class with a Credit/No Credit grading option, you must earn a C- to receive a Credit grade.

Academic Honesty: The following is from the student catalog. If I catch you cheating, I will pursue the maximum penalty. Plagiarism and cheating are offenses against the integrity of the courses in which they occur and against the College community as a whole. Plagiarism and cheating involve intellectual dishonesty, deception, and fraud, which inhibit the honest exchange of ideas. In accordance with Willamette University's Standards of Conduct, students are entitled to notice of what constitutes plagiarism and cheating and the right to appeal penalties. Plagiarism and cheating may be grounds for dismissal from the College. When appropriate during the semester, such as in conjunction with assignment of a class project or review for an exam, faculty members are encouraged to discuss plagiarism and cheating and how to avoid them. Cheating is any form of intellectual dishonesty or misrepresentation of one's knowledge. Plagiarism, a form of cheating, consists of representing someone else's work as one's own. All members of the Willamette University community are expected to be aware of the serious breach of principles involved in plagiarism. Ignorance of what constitutes plagiarism shall not be considered a valid defense. If students are uncertain as to what constitutes plagiarism for a particular assignment, they should consult the instructor for clarification. A faculty member may impose penalties for plagiarism and cheating ranging from a grade reduction on an assignment or an exam to failure in the course. A faculty member also may suggest that the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts initiate further action. For more information please see the following web site.
